February 2026

Have you heard of Wintering?

Wintering traditionally describes the season between autumn and spring. It promotes the idea that winter is not the time for reinventing yourself, rather it is the time for conserving energy until the light comes back. It is a time to reflect, recharge, and to find beauty in stillness, somewhat similar to hibernation in nature. These are dark and cold times, for which you need resilience to get through until the season of spring returns. This can come if you withdraw from the world and focus on yourself and embrace calm. It is generally believed that when the new year arrives in January you must be active and change, plan and have bright ideas for the future. But actually, just getting through the colder months is enough for us.

As February begins to unfold bringing lighter days and blossom in the trees, we in Hurst Green this year will still have heavy hearts as we continue to mourn the loss of two young lives taken far too soon in that tragic accident just before Christmas. We are thinking especially of the families and friends affected and all those who are supporting them. Words are always inadequate in such circumstances, but we hope those nearest will know that the whole community is behind them and offers its sympathy, love and support, giving them comfort and peace.

May the light of the burgeoning spring season guide and heal them and all of us who have our own losses and troubles, big and small. Spring always shows us that after the coldest winters, warmth will return. It does not erase the pain of what we have lost, but its new life helps us to carry on with gentleness and hope.

Frogs and toads on the move

The migration season for our local frogs and toads will soon be upon us. It's the time of year when the thoughts of a young toad, or frog, turn to love. But the quest for love is fraught with danger, because of the traffic on our roads.

Frogs and toads instinctively head back each year to the pond where they were bred, making their way from whichever garden they call home. They will make their move when the weather conditions are favourable, usually from early February onwards. As they are cold-blooded, they won't venture out if the temperature (taking into account any windchill) is less than about 5 degrees C. A misty and murky, mild evening is ideal for them.

Please drive carefully in the hours after sunset during February and March on the stretches of road leading to the T-junction between Church Way and Oast Road. We have 'Beware of the Toad' signs installed at three different points which are all about 100 metres from the T-junction, and they will be uncovered from the beginning of February. These are the stretches of road where you are likely to come across the amphibians as they slowly make their way, up until about the beginning of April. Please, if you can, slow down as you drive there if it's between dusk and about 10pm during the migrating season.

We have a Toad Patrol, of all ages, to help the frogs and toads on their journey, keeping casualties to a minimum. Volunteers for the Toad Patrol are always most welcome. Please contact me if you're interested. Many thanks, Adrian 07974 171977.
